Worth translating!

Sete Brasil will more than triple its capital, from R$1.9 billion to R$7 billion; this amount was already approved at the shareholders' meeting. The process could result in the entry of new quotaholders in order to reach an order portfolio of US$75 billion in service and charter contracts for twenty-eight offshore drilling rigs for oil wells with Petrobras. Energy Investment Group (EIG), an American institutional investor in the energy sector, and Luce Drilling, a company that was formed by investor Aldo Floris, could become shareholders of the company. Sete's capital is in the hands of Petros and Funcef (19.2% each), Bradesco, BTG Pactual and Santander (13.7% each), Previ (10%), and Valia (5.5%).

Vale a tradução!

A Sete Brasil vai aumentar seu capital em mais de três vezes, de R$ 1,9 bilhão para R$ 7 bilhões, valor já aprovado em assembleia de acionistas. O processo poderá resultar na entrada de novos sócios para fazer frente ao atendimento de uma carteira de pedidos de US$ 75 bilhões em contratos de afretamento e serviços de 28 sondas marítimas de perfuração de poços de petróleo com a Petrobras. O Energy Investment Group (EIG), investidor institucional americano da área de energia, e a Lucce Drilling, empresa criada pelo investidor Aldo Floris, podem se tornar acionistas da empresa. O capital da Sete está nas mãos de Petros e Funcef (19,2% cada), Bradesco, BTG Pactual e Santander (13,7% cada), Previ (10%) e Valia (5,5%).
